Shakespeare

As You Like It. A romantic comedy with all characters having loved before, falling in love or being in love.

The students chuckled as we read through the scenes. When it came to picking their characters for the play, almost all identified themselves with a character and each in turn refused to “budge an inch”.

Abby liked Celia because she is happy all of the time. Aaron wanted to practice being evil so he chose to be Duke Frederick. Lexi picked Phebe, after all, they both want to be the best they can be. Adam liked the wise servant because he gives sound helpful advice and is loyal.

Stumbles, stutters and giggles as our young blushing actors became “tongue tied” when vowing their love to one another.

Shakespeare

The students saw two different versions of the play and, as “good luck would have it,” each obtained great ideas as to how they would portray their parts. Back at rehearsals they practiced facial expressions and vocal pitches to deliver the messages of love from across the room. Hunter and Kevin had great fun practicing different choreographies to spice up their confrontation scenes.

Adding to the flavor of Shakespeare’s experience, the students decorated their own tunics portraying their character’s personalities. To decorate the stage, the students hand crafted vases, plates and cups. Just like in Shakespeare’s days!

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Shuttleworth School students invite you to see Shakespeare’s As You Like It production like you’ve never seen it before. Join us on August 14th!

Swimming

With towels in hand it is off to the Los Angeles City College for some very welcome classes. What better way to cool off in summer than to jump into a cool refreshing pool. Splash! Splash! Splash!

The younger group held on to the railing along the wall of the pool. With heads bobbing up and down, they started their first lesson by blowing water bubbles. B-r-r-r-r-r-r!

Catalina overcame her anxiety and was soon gliding through the water. "Look! I can swim!" Soon they were all venturing off the wall and testing new skills learned. Skye swam to the bottom of the pool.

When he emerged with his head shaking to bounce the water from his hair he exclaimed, "I touched the bottom!"

G'vonni having fun in the pool.

Ashley, an old hand at swimming, promptly graduated to the more advanced class and was soon swimming laps back and forth across the pool. Go Ashley!

The older students had some practice laps but were soon swimming across the pool under water in one breath! They went flying across the pool with their butterfly strokes.

New strokes, new skills, new speeds and a whole lot of cool wet fun in between! This is summer at its best!

YESS!

Youth Excelling in Spirit of Service

It is the time of year where chicks spread their wings and venture out of their nests. What do you do when you find one in need of help?

We found a chick in our backyard. We successfully put mom and baby back together again. Our rescue team seemed proud as peacocks!

Then we found another way to help the wildlife surrounding us. Having a bake sale we raised money to donate to Wildlife Care of Ventura County. Well done to our students and volunteers for taking care of, not only the people around them, but the wildlife as well!

Volunteers Needed!

Looking for artists that would like to volunteer their time teaching our summer students for one week. Please contact us at (323) 660-8732.

Thank you!

Thank you Gary Chase, Patty and Mark Swartz, Kathy Shaheri and all our parents for making our camping trip an incredible success! Thanks to Anne Fewell for the valuable art supplies!
