Sports Day

The beaches along the Pacific Ocean, especially between Santa Monica and Venice, have been in hundreds of movies and TV shows. Joggers, skaters, cyclists and even tri-cyclists enjoy almost 10 miles of paved path. Thousands of beach lovers enjoy the warm California sun with their sunscreen, beach towels, picnic baskets and swimsuits. Relaxing under umbrellas, building sandcastles or tossing Frisbees, everyone can enjoy the warm sun, cool breeze and beautiful scenery along this fine California Coastline.

With water bottles, sunscreen and hats in place we were off! We cycled in single file and doubles along the 6-mile bicycle path. We tested our strengths and senses taking in all we could along the ride. Testing our skills at volleyball followed a well-earned relaxing lunch at the pier. Sand was flying as we dove for the ball. Then off to the rings and parallel bars set up on the beach to challenge our skills.

Leadership Poetry

Barbara Ellingson, author of Creature Poems, sat in on our poetry seminar and also spoke to the students about poetry and read a couple of her poems to the class. Inspired by her book and studying leadership this school year the students set to work writing poems.

Kirsten decides her strategy when serving the volleyball.

Thank You to All Who Lead

Thank you to all who lead
And for all your generous deeds

From day to night and night to light
while causing us no fright

You help us out in our lives
While never ever cutting your ties

This is to all who lead
To say thanks, there is no more need.

Culinary Arts

In celebration of Earth Day, we decided to do a project on food. After all, all forms of life depend on consumption of energy to thrive and multiply. The preparation of food however, takes consumption to a whole new level, a whole new art form!

One of the oldest foods, probably dating back to the Stone Age, is flat bread baked in stone ovens. The Ancient Greeks made "plakuntos" with different toppings of herbs and there were similar breads in the Mediterranean region hundreds of years BC. But, in Italy, tomato was used as the main topping and flatbread became pizza (meaning "pie").

Cheech's Pizza on Hillhurst Avenue welcomed us and shared the culinary art of how a "mom and pop" restaurant makes pizza. Alumnus, Edward, took us on a tour and detailed every step of making and delivering pizza in special boxes to keep the pizzas hot and crispy.

The owner showed how he makes and measures out the dough. Of course he has his own secret recipe for his dough and sauces. The best part came when we made our own pizzas. Giggles and chuckles as we tossed the dough back and forth. Emil was strong and took only one good toss to get his dough ready. The toppings ranged from mushrooms, ham and pineapple to traditional pepperoni. Our individual pizzas were baked in the ovens, set for the best crusts, at 500 degrees.

Mmmmm ... We've had many wonderful fieldtrips, but this was a delicious fieldtrip!

Earth Day

Our students decided to be green by planting pansies and geraniums outside our school. They learned they can be green, and take care of their environment at the same time!

Volunteers Needed!

Special Thanks!

Thank you Cheech's Pizza (on Hillhurst Ave.) for opening your kitchen to our students. They learned a lot and loved making their very own pizzas!

Thank you Russ and Michelle for helping to make our Sports Day a fun adventure.

Thank you Barbara Ellingson for sharing your poetry with our students.
